9 Questions with Chef Just Mohler

Justin Mohler went to culinary school at Sullivan University and has been a pastry-chef in the Dayton area for the better part of twenty years, working at Blue Moon, Christopher's Restaurant and Olive-An Urban Dive. He recently opened Salt Block Biscuit Company on East Third St in the Fire Blocks District in downtown Dayton. Justin serves fresh baked goods with breakfast and lunch served from the baker's dozen bar stools at a counter or to-go.

What is your favorite ingredient to cook with? Butter: I love that this dairy product is universal in many ways. From flaky French pastries to adding richness to curry Indian or Thai cuisine, it succeeds to many levels.

What ingredient do you dread? Rose Water: Best used for perfumes, not for internal use. Who wants a mouth full of potpourri? A little bit goes a long way!

What's your favorite dish to make? Any type of shoulder, leg or arm that would require a full day in the oven and fills the air with an herby bold aroma.

What's your favorite pig out food? Chips & Dip of any shape or form

What restaurant, other than your own, do you like to dine at in the Miami Valley? I'm a sucker for ole school supper clubs: Treasure Island, Hickory Bar-B-Q, Buckhorn, Oakwood Club. These places take me back to my childhood when we would go out with my grandparents on a Saturday night. What a treat!! Also these places have a feeling of tradition which makes the menu more consistent and no surprises.

What's your best advice for home chefs? Clean as you go

Who do you look up to in the industry and why?
Elizabeth Valenti of Wheat Penny: She takes pride in her staff and does so much for the community. I'm just getting to know her but all I've witnessed is kindness and patience. Another person I would love to have over for dinner soon.

What do you do in the Miami Valley on a day off? Bike & Breweries

Share a kitchen disaster, lucky break or other interesting story:
I once caught my shirt on fire while stirring rhubarb. While working at Christopher's in late May of 2009. I had a large stock pot full of chopped rhubarb to cook down slightly before adding it to my strawberries. To keep it from burning in the bottom of my pot, I constantly had to keep a firm intense stir. My friend who was also a chef in the kitchen that day looked over at me stirring and said "Justin you're on fire!!" Thinking she was commenting on my determination of not burning the rhubarb. I replied "I Know" and just kept stirring with a smile. She raised her voice "No, you're literally on fire" I looked down and here I had myself too close to the range and had caught my shirt on fire. With a panic I turned around and headed for the sink. How I did not burn myself is beyond me, but my shirt on the other hand had seen better days. I then borrowed an undershirt from a server so I could finish my strawberry rhubarb cobbler.
