Musician Spotlight: Mike Bankhead

Talented local rock musician, Mike Bankhead, is releasing a new single this month called "Hold the Wick" with a whopping 7 remixes, all of which are in different genres/styles. He plans to release them all together digitally, with each remix accompanied by a music video.

"Hold the Wick" was recorded and mixed in just one day at ReelLove Recording Company here in Dayton.

"I really wanted to work with other musicians and put a project around the single, so I commissioned seven remixes, each one in a different style," Bankhead shared with us. "Remember the CD singles from the 90s where you would buy a single, but the disc would have some additional songs on it? That's the feeling I wanted to capture here."

Each of the collaborators who worked on the remixes received the same song buildingblocks - and each person had the freedom to create whatever they wanted to create with those pieces. "I hope that listeners also look into the other work from each of the 7 creative individuals who did remixes."

The new single "Hold the Wick" will debut on Bandcamp on March 4th, which is also a "Bandcamp Friday" - a day when musicians make their full pay on any music purchased. The single will be released on all other streaming services by March 15th. That is also the date Bankhead will appear on WUDR Flyer Radio and his music video will premiere on YouTube.
